of occupancy on account of breach
of condition

43.-(1) Where any breach of condition has arisen and it appears to the village council that, notwithstanding any action taken against the occupier in breach of those conditions under sections 39 to 42, the breach is-the notice, and may adduce any evidence which he considers necessary to enable him to show cause as to why a temporary assignment of his customary right of occupancy should not take place.

(7) Where the occupier has not responded to the notice or has failed to show cause, to the satisfaction of the village council as to why a temporary assignment of his customary right of occupancy should not take place, the village council shall serve on that occupier an order, to be known as a “conditional order of temporary assignment” in the prescribed form.
